The Jolly Girl

Often changes to the jaded woman. "I can't see what's come over Mary; she used to be such a jolly girl," was the remark of a young woman visiting a married schoolmate. Marriage changes a woman. The drains and pains which are so often the sequence of marriage rob her of all vitality. Give her back her former strength and she'll be as "jolly" a wife as she was a maid. Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription gives back the lost strength by re-establishing the health of the delicate womanly organs. It dries the drains and stops the pains. It cures ulceration, inflammation and female weakness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

"For two years I had been a sufferer from chronic diseases and female weakness," writes Mrs. Allen A. Bobson, of 1125 Rodman Street, Philadelphia, Pa. "I had two different doctors, and they gave me medicine which only relieved me for a time. My niece advised me to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I concluded that to open a correspondence with you for your advice would be safest, so I did, and have been highly benefited. I find that after taking six bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and five of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and following your advice in regard to local treatment, I am now a strong woman. Accept my sincere thanks for the interest manifested in my case and the happy results obtained."

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter free. Correspondence private. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

News of the County

Special Correspondence from Near-by Towns

DOYLESTOWN.

The liquor traffic was again the subject of consideration during a session of Argument Court held on Monday. Several applications that had been held under advisement were taken up. During an argument in behalf of a client an attorney spoke of the "rights" of his client being stricken down. The court inquired what rights a licensed dealer possessed, whereupon the attorney hastened to amend the statement by the substitution of the word "privilege" instead of right. And it was on the privilege basis that Judge Yerkes proceeded to do business. In the dock were two inmates of the County Home, convicted at the last term of furnishing liquor to persons of known intemperate habits. One of them had obtained a quart of liquor at the wholesale house of William Francis, in Doylestown. It transpired that the pauper had represented to the dealer that he was a farm hand, whereupon he obtained the liquor. Upon learning the facts in the case the court granted the license and the two paupers were sent to jail. During the inquiry into the matter the court inquired whether there had been any more drunkenness at the County House since these defendants were arrested. Steward Bunting replied that there had been and expressed the belief that the liquor had been obtained in Montgomery county. Thereupon the court directed the Steward to carry the war into that county, adding that neglect to do so would be sufficient cause for a recommendation to the Directors of the Poor that he be removed. Unless Steward Bunting keeps the drinking paupers on the premises he will have a difficult job in stopping the sale of liquor at Willow Grove. At the big hotel at that place hundreds of people assemble daily, and it is not likely that the barkeepers will inquire of every man wearing laborer's garb whether he is an inmate of the Bucks County Home. The local dealers, however, are extremely careful not to sell to persons they suspect to be inmates. In one case a respectable and sober citizen was refused a drink because the landlord suspected that he might be a pauper. It has been suggested that the inmates be obliged to wear a uniform or some distinguishing mark, which would be rather humiliating to worthy unfortunates who get a day off. One of the paupers referred to above procured liquor at the Warrington Hotel, kept by Edward Tomlinson. In this instance, also, the landlord was deceived and upon explaining the matter the license was granted.

In the case of Louisa Vandegrift, of Bensalem, whose son conducts the hotel, it appeared that the son is a pretty hard drinker, for which reason the court continued to hold the granting of the license under advisement.

The application of Albert Hackman for a license at Dublin was refused. This was the hotel formerly kept by Jacob Crouthamel, who was recenty fined and forbidden to ever hold a license again in this State in consequence of violations of the law. The court stated that it did not propose to give Crouthamel an opportunity to profit by the granting of a license to Hackman in case Crouthamel was really back of the enterprise. It may be that the license will never be renewed, as there is some doubt about the necessity for the hotel.

The license of Daniel Landis, of Tinicum, was refused, he having pleaded guilty to violation of the law.

The application of John Larsen, proprietor of the Jamison hotel, was likewise turned down in consequence of the recent trouble there concerning the death of Joseph Smith.

The Closson House, Bristol, procured a license which had been held up pending an investigation into the statements of Daniel Ward, convicted of nuisance at last term, who stated that he procured his liquor there. There was abundant evidence to show that Ward's testimony was not reliable, and his sentence of three months was increased to eight, and the license granted.

Another matter of interest was the petition of citizens of Chalfont asking to have the village incorporated as a borough. There was very little opposition to the project. The usual statements concerning the necessity for improved streets, lights, schools, etc., were made in behalf of the petition. The matter was held under advisement.

The finest sermon that has been delivered here recently was that of John J. Cornell, of Baltimore, a prominent member of the Society of Friends, who spoke Friday evening. Mr. Cornell spoke of the need of more unity and less conformity in the church, declaring that mere creed is of little consequence so long as the Commandment given to the Disciples to love one another was observed. Mr. Cornell condemned the practice of making assaults upon the character of individuals in political controversy when policies should be the matter discussed. He contended that nothing is gained by personal animosity and the abuse of an opponent. In regard to religion he contended that every individual should follow his own impulse in the outward demonstration of his belief, and that if this were universally conceded sectarian prejudice would soon disappear.

The Bucks County Natural Science Association entertained the Delaware Valley Naturalists Union on Saturday. Nearly a hundred members of the former organization were conducted to places of historic interest by the local society, the itinerary including visits to the sites of the "Indian Walk" and "Blawicky" village near Wrightstown. Ely J. Smith, of Doylestown, recited historic facts of interest concerning the walk. The visitors were delighted with the outing.

The congregation of St. Paul's Lutheran Church has extended a call to Emilie J. Keuling, student at Mt. Airy, who is about to be ordained. The sudden resignation of Rev. J. R. Groff, former pastor, was a matter of great surprise to many people, who had no intimation that he intended to resign. Mr. Keuling is young and energetic and promises to become a pulpit orator of pronounced ability.

Under the escort of Prof. A. S. Martin, principal of the Doylestown High School, the Philadelphia Botanical Club, comprised of noted scientists, enjoyed a delightful outing on Thursday last. The botanists took a ramble along the Neshaminy, finding many flowers and plants that are rare. They spent the entire day in the woods and fields.

Unnecessary Loss of Time.

W. S. Whedon, cashier of the First National Bank of Winterset, Iowa, in a recent letter gives some experience with a carpenter working in his employ, that will be of value to other mechanics. He says: "I had a carpenter working for me who was obliged to stop work for several days on account of being troubled with diarrhoea. I mentioned to him that I had been similarly troubled and that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy had cured me. He bought a bottle of it from the druggist here and informed me that one dose cured him, and he is again at his work." For sale by all druggists.

Danger, disease and death follow neglect of the bowels. Use DeWitt's Little Early Risers to regulate them and you will add years to your life and life to your years. Easy to take, never gripe. J. Edward Wright, Central Pharmacy, 308 Mill street.

TULLYTOWN.

William Wilkman, who has been confined to the house by illness, is about again.

The Street Commissioner expects to begin harvesting the crop of grass in the gutters during the present week.

The Burton shad fishery suspended operations last Saturday evening, when, as the fishermen phrase it, the net was cut out. The drifters have been busy night and day this week and have been unusually successful.

The regular meeting of Town Council was not held last Monday evening owing to the fact that there was not a quorum present. Three members only put in their appearance. The president of council was one of the absentees. This makes the third successive meeting that he has missed. You had better wake up, Doctor.

Appropos of the proposed delegation to the State Convention in August Register John T. Fish, of Falls, has been favorably mentioned as one of the candidates for delegate at large. Mr. Fish has the distinction somewhat rare among the politicians of this county for the past two or three years, of being a consistent supporter of the State oragnization, although he is not identified with the county "ring." Should he decide to become a candidate he would undoubtedly receive the united support of the lower end of the county.

Last Saturday evening Smith & Hutchins' Minstrels, of Trenton, gave an entertainment in Red Men's Hall. While the attendance was rather small, the character of the entertainment was far above the average. Taken as a whole the company was the best that has ever come here from Trenton. The members of the company are all colored men, whose singing and dancing were worthy of having been greeted by a large audience. They will probably receive a warmer welcome here should they decide to come again. The management of the organization is arranging for a performance in Florence some time this month.

The final meeting of the old Board of School Directors was held on Monday evening. After the passage of sundry bills and the consideration of the treasurer's report the old board adjourned and the new one was organized. The members for the board for the ensuing year are George Miller, Harrison Shafer, A. B. Shoemaker, William Wildman, Elwood Walters and William Woodsides. The election of officers resulted in the election of Harrison Shafer for president and William Wildman for secretary. The election of treasurer was laid over until the next regular meeting. The report of the treasurer of the outgoing board showed that there had been about $1,110 received during the past school year and a little less than that amount expended, thus reducing the debt of the school district slightly.

The Christian Endeavor Society held its weekly meeting on last Sunday in the chapel, after which Rev. A. S. Pittenger opened service by singing and prayer. Owing to the threatening weather the meeting came to a close before due time, everybody being anxious to reach home before the storm. There was a full attendance.

The Christian Endeavor Society held its social and business meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Muschert on last Monday evening. After the business was transacted the remainder of the evening was spent in games and music. The attendance was large, there being sixty-five persons present. Refreshments consisting of ice cream and cake were served in abundance. The gathering separated about eleven o'clock, all avowing having spent a very pleasant evening.

The most interesting social meeting of the Penns Manor W. C. T. U. was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Beck on Saturday evening, June 1st. After music by the orchestra the meeting was opened by singing "In the Everlasting Arms," followed by reading the first twelve verses of the 52d chapter of Isaiah by Miss Lizzie Seidensticker, prayer by Mrs. J. E. Beck, and singing "Jesus is Good to Me." Miss Anna Rothwell Stewart was introduced and gave a very forceful address on "Individual Responsibility." She showed how much more one can do in an oragnization which is impossible when working alone. The work of scientific temperance instruction in the schools; the exposure of the canteen evils and many other efforts were cited to show that good work is being done. An earnest plea was presented for helpers in the work. After the close of the meeting refreshments were served and another very pleasant social hour was spent while refreshing the inner man. All seemed to be pleased and we hope received good from being with the W. C. T. U.

The late continuous rains for nearly two weeks caused quite a little freshet again. All the lowlands were filled with water. The Bordentown road from Pennsburg to "Pedlar's Hole," was two feet under water for a week, making it difficult and dangerous for a vehicle to pass and impossible for a pedestrian. The cause of all this trouble is that break in the bank on the farm of William B. Ivins. It ought to arouse the taxpayers of Falls township to have the leak stopped at once, so as not to cause the expenditure of any more money foolishly. Unless this bank is put up in a substantial form by a competent person the money spent on this road will be wasted every time there is an ordinary rise in the river. Some one, perhaps will say, that this is no public highway. What does it matter if it is not? If money can be saved in this way there will be more funds for use in improving our other roads after this drain on the taxpayers is stopped. A meeting ought to be called and the Supervisor given power to act to have this done at the earliest possible time. No doubt some of the closely interested people would give liberally above their respective taxes to help having this work done.

Traffic on this road has been very heavy since the car has been running around the loop here.

Captain Potts' men fairly snowed under a Bristol contingent in a game on the home grounds on Saturday afternoon, defeating them by a score of 17 to 0 in seven innings, the game being called on account of rain. The visitors were unable to do anything with Treat, the local pitcher, getting but three hits, while our boys unmercifully pounded Quinn and Snyder. Potts and Young each got four hits.

What might have been a serious runaway accident took place on Saturday morning last when a horse belonging to Joel Mason, Jr., and which was attached to a light market wagon ran away from in front of the post office, where it was left standing untied and the animal dashed up Smith street at a furious pace, narrowly missing running into a number of carriages which were on the street at that time. In turning the corner of Union and Mill streets the wagon was overturned and the horse was thrown to the ground, where it remained until relieved from the wagon. Fortunately the only damage done was a slight injury to the horse's foot and the breaking of the harness and part of the top of the wagon.

Memorial Day was very generally observed here, the business places and residences of the citizens being gaily decorated with flags and bunting. There was a parade in the mornig headed by the G. A. R. veterans and standard bearer, followed by Ruhlman's Naval Reserve Band, Knights of the Mystic Chain, Moffet's Drum Corps, B. of U. and school children, and Jr. O. U. A. M. with firing squad. The exercises at the cemetery consisted of the decorating of the dead heroes' graves by the G. A. R. veterans and school children, addresses by the Rev. J. B. Reber, pastor of the M. E. Church, of this place, Harvey H. Keyser, Esq., of Bristol; Dr. D. S. Dana, of this place, and others; also firing of a salute by the firing squad of the Mechanics, singing of national hymns by the school children and music by the band. For those interested in sports there were two base ball games—one in the forenoon with the Crescents, of Philadelphia, which was won by the locals, 4 to 3, and another in the afternoon with the Germantown team, our boys again winning by a score of 20 to 0.

The base ball season for this section opened on the Y. M. C. A. grounds at Andalusia on Decoration Day, when the home nine defeated the Newportville team by a score of 17 to 16. At the beginning of the home team's third inning the score stood 6 to 1 in favor of the Newportville aggregation and gloom rested on the majority of faces. N. W. McGowan came to the bat and sent a fly so far on its way to Philadelphia that three runs were made before it could be brought back and the crowd yelled with joy. The return game will be played on the Newportville grounds on Saturday afternoon, June 8.

ATTLEBORO.

A strawberry festival will be held on the lawn of St. James' P. E. Mision on Saturday, June 8, beginning at 4 o'clock. In addition to the festival there will be a bread and cake table. All are invited to attend.

There's a story of a farmer and his son driving a load to market. Of the team they were driving one was a steady reliable old gray mare the other a fractious, balky black horse. On the way the wagon was stalled and the black horse sulked and refused to pull. "What'll we do father?" said the younger man. "Well" said the father, "I guess we'll have to lay the gad on the old gray." That homely compliment to women: "The gray mare's the better horse" suggests how often when there's an extra strain to be borne it is laid on the woman's back. How often she breaks down at last under the added weight of some "last straw." Women who are dragging along wearily through life can gain real strength by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It puts back in concentrated form the strength making material which working women use up more rapidly than it can be restored by Nature in the ordinary processes of nourishment and rest. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are universal favorites with women because they are easy to take and thoroughly effective in curing the consequences of constipation.

Dyspeptics cannot be long lived because to live requires nourisment. Food is not nourishing until it is digested. A disordered stomach cannot digest food, it must have assistance. THURSDAY JUNE 6, 1901.

TO THE REPUBLICAN ELECTORS OF PENNSYLVANIA:

I am directed by the Republican State Committee to announce that the Republicans of Pennsylvania, by their duly chosen Representatives, will meet in convention at the Opera House, in the city of Harrisburg, on Wednesday, August 21st, 1901, at 10.30 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of nominating candidates for the following offices, to-wit:

One person for the office of Justice of the Supreme Court.

One person for the office of State Treasurer.

In accordance with the rules governing the organization, the representation in the State Convention will be based on the vote polled at the last Presidential election. Under the rules each legislative district is entitled to one delegate for every two thousand votes cast for the Presidential Electors in 1900, and an additional delegate for every fraction of two thousand votes polled in excess of one thousand.

By order of the Republican State Committee. FRANK REEDER, Chairman.
W. R. ANDREWS,
C. E. VOORHEES,
Secretaries.

Sir Thomas Lipton will now, no doubt, feel more encouraged, since the Constitution has had a little mishap, too.

Cuba accepted the Platt amendment with so much qualification that it has plainly become something quite different from what Congress proposed.

The Hatboro Public Spirit took us by surprise last week by coming to our table in a radical change of form. Instead of a four-page blanket sheet the Spirit now appears as a twelve page paper of convenient size.

Before the news was received of McLaurin's withdrawal, Editor Bryan declared that Tillman would win "because he represents the man while McLaurin represents the dollar." The "peerless" is correct—McLaurin stands for a sound dollar. The nearest Tillman comes to a dollar is 45 cents.

Since Mr. Bryan has been in the newspaper business and his thoughts and utterances have been committed to cold type, and the proofs revised by himself, so that there can be no excuse for misquotation, he is shown up in his true light—a demogogic rattler, without even common judgment. Mr. Bryan may have some estimable qualities but as a statesman, oh!

Because the wife of the Rev. C. M. Sheldon would not permit a servant girl to dine with the family the girl left the Sheldon home, but not, however, until she had reminded Mrs. Sheldon that her husband, in a recent novel, in discussing the servant girl problem, had insisted that the servant girl should have equal privileges with the faimly. Mrs. Sheldon told the girl that she was not responsible for her husband's opinion.

Our esteemed contemporary, the Commoner, W. J. Bryan, editor, says that the Supreme Court decision in the Porto Rico cases gives imperialistic powers to the President and that William McKinley is thus crowned Emperor. In our humble judgment and according to our reading of the text of the decisions we are of the opinion that what Editor Bryan says is just what the Court did not do. It was held by the majority of the judges that upon Congress rests the so-called imperialistic power. There can be no monarchy in the United States as long as the highest courts hold that the representatives of the people are in supreme authority.

The Rev. Dr. John Watson (Ian MacLaren), who last year was Moderator of the English Presbyterian Synod, did not hesitate to express an opinion concerning the Westminster Confession of Faith. Dr. Watson believes as do most sensible people that the time has come to take some of the damnation out of the rules of faith and instil some affection. When asked for his opinion of the American decision to revise the Confession Dr. Watson said:

Many on this side of the Atlantic are glad to know that their Presbyterian brethren in the United States propose to revise the Confession. It is an intellectual wonder, but would be improved by a reduction in size and an infusion of love.

Considerable newspaper comment has been caused by the introduction into the Legislature of the Emery and Focht bills relative to street railways. Attention has been particularly directed toward the measures because of the rapid transit manner in which they have been railroaded in the Senate and House. Senator Focht's bill provides that which is sadly needed. According to its provisions corporations created under the act shall have the right of eminent domain "which is expressly conferred and may construct their railways on, under, over, across and along any street, highway, bridge or private property." Damages, of course, to be paid. The bills have great merit and the manner in which they were supported by all factions in the Legislature is evidence of non-partisan intent in securing passage.

Congressman Curtis, of Kansas, while in Washington last week, when interviewed relative to the opera buffet political contest which enjoyed a short run in South Carolina, gave a good description of the principles involved in the fight between Tillman and McLaurin. Mr. Curtis said:

"Tillmanism means just what he asserts—back to the days of the old century. No industrial expansion, no industrial increase of wealth, no advancement in principles, political, industrial or otherwise; nothing new; same old story, nothing new. Just peg along with the old mule; plow the corn, pick the cotton; stand still and let the rest of the people get rich, and the rest of the country expand, build up and grow wealthy.

"It's a good thing that such sentiments do not rule in the United States outside of his section. If they did, we would not need to import into the State of Kansas 20,000 men to help the thousands already there harvest the wheat crop this year, which is the largest we ever had. According to Tillmanism, this is all wrong. We must not advance. We should remain in the buffalo and prairie dog stage forever.

"McLaurin is a brave man. He is also a bright man. A man has got to be both to advance such ideas as he expresses in the rock-ribbed Democratic section in which he lives. They already say he will be defeated. New ideas and principles don't digest well there. I hope he comes back to the Senate. He has shaken up the dry bones and scattered the dust and mold of steel-bound conservatism in a way that has not been witnessed in the South since the war. He wins admiration for the courage of his convictions, at least."

SLAVES OF SOCIETY.

A recent dispatch from Washington, announcing the serious illness of a prominent woman, who has since died, contained the statement that, according to her physicians, this woman was paying the penalty of too great devotion to her social duties.

There is much food for thought in this statement, which might well be taken to heart by many American women who are prominent in society. How many American women, old and young, are killing themselves after this same fashion? It is but a few years since life in this country was simple, even among the so-called "better classes." Social entertainments were comparatively few, and hours early. With the great access of wealth, and the development of rapid transportation, making Europe our next-door neighbor, we have changed all that, and today the duties exacted from a woman who seeks to keep on top of the social swim are such as must inevitably, within a few years, break down any but the toughest constitution. The strain is an unnatural one, both upon the mind and body. A frail girl of nervous temperament, who would not think of walking half a dozen city blocks, will spend a whole night in the heat and excitement of a fashionable ballroom, during which time she undergoes an amount of physical exercise equivalent to climbing a mountain 5000 feet high, with the difference that, while the one would be wholesome exercise, the other is decidedly other wise. Then follows, as a matter of course, nervous prostration, and the fashionable physician prescribes some kind of a stimulant—either alcohol, or bromide, or cocaine, or some other of the popular nervines, in their many disguises—with the result that the use of these drugs frequently develops a habit which the unfortunate woman is unable to throw off, and she gradually becomes a total wreck. This, of course, is an extreme case, but as such cases are far more numerous than might be supposed by those who have not investigated the subject. For every case of this kind there are scores, or hundreds of instances, in which women have been ruined in health by too deep a devotion to the ceremonial observances which are demanded by modern society. And what are the rewards for all this sacrifice of peace, and comfort, and health? Chiefly, an occasional notice in the society columns, to the effect that Mrs. ——'s "exclusive and recherche reception was one of the most brilliant social functions of the season," or something of that sort.

Happy the woman or girl who possesses sufficient good sense and independence to permit her to enjoy the legitimate pleasures of modern society, without making herself a social slave, and to choose her friends and acquaintances on account of their individual characteristics, not because of any fictitious prominence they may possess in the "social swim."

Col. Watterson suggests a new leader for the Democratic party. The Republican party impressed that idea last year in a far more practical way than that now proposed. What the Democratic party needs is new innerds, a new name and a complete novelty in the shape of real principles.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

HINT OF PREDESTINATION.

Collegeville Independent.

It is reported that J. P. Hale Jenkins, Esq., is to be switched off the Senatorial track—to avoid a collision—and to be locomobiled into the office of Solicitor to the Commissioners. This arrangement may result in a clear field for the Honorables Heebner and Saylor, in which to wrestle for the Republican nomination, preparatory to defeat at the polls.

FRATERNAL GREETINGS.

Sellersville Herald.

Gloom sits enthroned upon the majestic brow of our nearest contemporary, the Central News. Deep, portentuous wrath stirs its bowels to the uttermost. The News loves the Herald very little, so little in fact, that it will not even exchange copies with it. It loves the truth less, else it would not make such bold statements which it cannot substantiate, not even when challenged to do so.

A QUALIFIED PREDICTION.

Langhorne Standard.

The enactment of the oleo law in this State gives to farmers the protection which they deserve, and it is well known that Hon. Hampton W. Rice was a staunch supporter of the measure. The victory over the manufacturers of oleo scores another strong point for the return of Mr. Rice to the State Senate, and gives the assurance to farmers in Bucks county that, although the oleo makers now intimate that they will force it as an issue in the election of members of the next Legislature, with the return of Mr. Rice to Harrisburg our home dairymen will have an earnest and honest advocate of any measure intended to benefit the agriculturist. Mr. Rice's record in the Legislature and State Senate will undoubtedly return him to his present seat if he decides to be a candidate for re-election, and the farmers of Bucks county are true to themselves.

YOUNG FINANCIERS.

Doylestown Republican.

Nobody will question the law of heredity in the face of the dispatch stating that George Gould's youngsters, having determined to run away, procured flowers which they charged to their mother's account and subsequently sold to hotel guests that they might procure provisions for their journey. Evidently there is a deal of Grandfather Gould about these little chaps.

WHERE WERE THE INSURGENTS?

Doylestown Intelligencer.

Whatever the merits of the omnibus trolley bill introduced this week at Harrisburg, the manner of its introduction is open to suspicion. The presentation of such a measure, at this date in the session, without any prior expression of demand for such a law, must be viewed with distrust. It is also perhaps of equal significance that the machine Senators were exclusively on hand when the bill was introduced. In the absence of intelligent discussion nobody knows what the trolley bill stands for or what interests are to be served—though it is sure to guess that public welfare is not the primary consideration in the business.

NORRISTOWN LETTER.

Norristown, Pa., June 3, 1901.

Thinking that the rainy season had ended with May, in which we had rain all through the month and only three May days, on Saturday, the 1st of June, I took a drive through the county as far as Fort Washington and around through Ambler, going by one and coming back by another road. It was very cold in the early morning, but cleared up sufficiently to warrant starting out in the afternoon, and I went, only to be caught of course, in a heavy rain at 8 o'clock in the evening. I noticed the condition of the corn fields first—that is planted, and where preparation has been partly made for planting. The corn is up, in a sickly condition, where it had been planted between the showers; but many fields are plowed and not yet planted—many only half plowed. There is a phenomenal condition in all the crops this year. I cannot understand it. Nature seems to be at war with itself; let us note particularly what the harvest will be, for all is well that ends well.

But Ambler! never in this section of the State has there been such a revelation as in this region where the new borough is planted on the line of the North Pennsylvania Railroad. It is all new; there is no old part as in Norristown or Germantown; nothing about it colonial or ancient; yet it has a foreign aspect as compared with the villages of ante-bellum days. The master hand is seen in its improvements and environments as in its architecture and edifices. The new Episcopal Church is a model of refinement in its majestic proportions and appointments, its approaches from porte-cochere to pediment, handsome walk and winding coachways. I know no finer house of worship in the county. The dwelling houses are of the most refined type and are blessed with broad breathing places and adorable lawns. The great house of Keasly & Malteson has been the potent spirit of this enterprising borough; and the wisdom of the founders in the selection of such a site is shown in the success which has followed its magnificent evolution. The town has a bank of solid worth and great success; a model post office; splendid opera house, fine schools, churches of every description and every branch of art and merchandise. Its newspaper is famed for its fidelity to local, State and national interests and its Wyndham is a happy home for the stranger and traveller; a real inn and a salon of perfection, a hotel of renown. As soon as we get our traction connection all the county will enjoy the electric thrill of communication with Ambler. This dream will be realized this summer.

When twenty-two New Yorkers can go to London and call on the King of England at Windsor and are welcomed at a reception in person, accompanied with the Queen, it makes us Pennsylvania Republicans blush for shame at the brazen assumption of our statesmen vested with a little brief authority and standing off from the people like canonized priests or the frozen pyramids of Egypt. The outrecuidance, in plain words, ultra and excessive presumption of superiority of little men in authority, is the greatest evidence of the rule of mediocrity. Great men are always easily approached. I went to Washington once to see Salmon P. Chase when he was secretary of the Treasury in Lincoln's cabinet. He happened to hear the stripling at the door say to me that this was not the day for the Secretary of the Treasury to receive callers, when Chase called out to me to come in. I had mentioned my name merely, and from whence I came, to the doorkeeper. I noticed at once the genuine democracy of the ex-Governor of Ohio; and the superior lord in the stately doorkeeper. The jacques make rules of their own about the departments—indeed even at Harrisburg clerks put on more airs than any of the Governors from Shunk to Stone—prior to that time my memory serves me not. Even at Norristown we see it; court criers and club men, tip staves and other tipperary adjuncts assume not only more dignity and authority but more knowledge of law than the judges and the most experienced and learned men in the law.

It is well that the members of the Chamber of Commerce of New York, escorted by their fellow craftsmen of the London Chamber, should make this call on the head of the Nation and that they were welcomed as unceremoniously by the King as they would all be by our President and each of our Governors in all Republican simplicity—without any fuss or formal speeches; or absurd todyism or condescension of presenting in a silver box an unreadable roll or deed of the freedom of the city. Englishmen and the Statesmen are all entitled to the freedom of the city—in the Capitol of the British Empire or the North American Republic of the United States. Peoples of distinct and different dialects, only need interpreters and official spokesmen.

Our court commenced on Monday, the 3d inst. We had 29 causes on the civil list, while little Delaware on the same day had 200. But our judges and juries are working this week on the criminal charges. The Grand Jury organized, 21 in number, by selecting one of them to act as foreman. The constables stood up in true constabulory array and made their perfunctory returns to the Quarter Sessions—Judges Swartz and Weand. Wonder they do not give us a judge from Harrisburg to try the felonies in a separate court from the misdemeanors! That will come next. Wires and railroads underground, on the ground and overhead! a court for every quantity and quality, and a judge with a jurisdiction all his own, selected and limited. Now let us have another—called the Mercy Seat. Here let Portia plead. But who shall be judge? In two years from now I will be old enough, I know, but will the Legislature wait?

Texas is again in the swim; not from the devastating floods from Galveston this time, but from the bubbling, spouting, flowing oil of her virgin oil wells. Her great production is the wonder of the world. But wonders will never cease.

The President of the United States just now has serious sorrows of his own, and new distractions growing out of the acquisition of the Isles of the sea. At the present writing it would seem that his wife is in an incurable conflict with her sad affliction. This is a terrible addition to his great responsibility. McKinley has impressed the people as a man of principle. He is regarded as above the cool and deliberate political philosopher; that he is more man than politician. But it will be remembered by the people as an important incident of his trip to California and the illness of his wife, that she was raised from a dying bed by the application of salt. "Remember Lot's wife," who turned into salt, will be supplemented with "Remember McKinley's wife."

It is better to turn salt into one's self than for one's self to turn into salt. But salt is one of the most valuable of the gifts of creation. Shakespeare says, "though we are justices and doctors and churchmen * * * we have some salt of our youth in us." It seasons our food, animates our blood and preserves our meat. Many of the supposed miracles performed of old by supernatural power were wrought by the application of salt and water. I am not speaking alone of Him whose fame extended throughout Syria and to whom were brought all sick people that were taken with divers diseases and torments and those which were possessed with devils, and those which were lunatic and those that had the palsy, and He healed them and to whom, among the multitudes who followed Him over beyond Jordan, to whom he delivered His sermon on the Mount saying among the memorable things: "Ye are the salt of the earth; but if the salt have lost his savour wherewith shall it be salted?" But of all the great physicians and the seers of a hundred years of life and more, who extended their periods of longevity to a period no longer to be attained by modern men who assume to have seconded a higher scale of science in the laws of health and how to provide against disease, microbes, tuberculosis and contagious malady. The cattle in those days had all the murrain and pestilence of the present time and the people all the afflictions that human flesh is heir to, or the doctors expect to discover. The learned physicians, male and female, seem to have a diagnosis at least of everything archaic and modern except the casting out of devils, and it appears to me the devils are too many for the doctors; or else the doctors are afraid of burning their fingers with the fiends from the infernal regions who have a habit of getting into respectable lobbyists, loiterers, liars, legislators, gamblers and jobbers and other pious and wicked people in good clothes.

The debacle discovered at the Silver Brooke mine near Hazelton, Pa., on the 20th ult., whereby an unknown river leaped into life, sweeping away the men employed, drowning three of them; and the cave-in of a street in Shamokin, Pa., the same day, remind us of the miraculous occurrences mentioned in scriptures. We are making new discoveries every day wherein are verified the famous stories of the olden times. No longer is the Pool of Siloam, whose waters go softly, imperceptibly, the wonder of the world, as when the Jews were wont to celebrate a festival they gathered there chanting the 12th Chapter of Isaiah. Water gushes from our rocks from unseen sources, not only at Hazelton but at Spring Mill, in our county, oil flows like fury in different parts of the nation out of the bowels of the earth where it has been gathering and generating for ages, and agencies still exist, and which will be brought to light when

"House and homestead into seas are borne,
Rocks from their old foundations shall be torn,
And woods made thin with winds their scattered honors mourn."

The downfall of an apple, or the touch of a blast will bring to light some new revelation of an immemorial law or principle of Nature. G. N. C.

BASE BALL.

Bristol Club Shut Out.

The game of base ball played between the Bristol and Burlington clubs on the latter's grounds on Memorial Day was a splendid exhibition of good ball playing. Quinn, the pitcher of the Bristol club, distinguished himself as a twirler and won a reputation as a cool and deliberate pitcher. The game from the beginning was really a pitchers' battle. Allen, who pitched for Bristol last year, was in the box for Burlington and as he had never pitched in opposition to his old companions before, interest in the outcome was running high. During the first four innings neither club scored. With two men out in the fifth inning, Gardener of Burlington, was sent to base on balls and stole second. Dunn hit to centre for two bases and Gardener scored. Dunn was subsequently thrown out at the home plate, which retired the side with one run to the Jerseymen's credit. In the sixth inning, Hoeding, of Bristol, reached third base but the next batter struck out, which retired the side. In Burlington's half a safe hit, two two-baggers and an error by Bristol enabled them to pile up three more runs. In the next three innings neither club scored a run and in consequence Burlington won the game by the following score:

Bloomsdale Won First Game.

The Bloomsdale base ball club opened the season on Saturday last, defeating the Sons of Temperance by a score of 26 to 9. The Bloomsdale club outbatted and outfielded their opponents throughout the entire game. The result of the game was to no small extent due to the brilliant pitching of Bunting and Scull for the Bloomsdale club. The Sons of Temperance made 14 errors, while Bloomsdale only had three. This also contributed to the success of the Bloomsdale boys. Cummons, of Bloomsdale, made the only home run of the game. The score by innings:

Bloomsdale	0 6 2 4 2 3 8 1 0—26
S. of T.	0 0 0 0 1 4 2 2 0— 9

Two-base hit—Bunting, McCarry. Home run.—Cummons.

Good Will Defeated.

Last Saturday the South Bristol base ball club defeated the Good Will Hose Company team by the score of 19 to 12. The features of the game were the battery work of Barton and Crawford and the heavy hitting of Clair. The South Bristols would like to hear from the Centrals and other Bristol teams; also from Bloomsdale, Tullytown, Newportville, Hulmeville, Eden and Langhorne. Will guarantee return games. Address, George Thackara, 570 Bath street, Bristol.

Shut Out at Morrisville.

On Saturday afternoon the Bristol base ball club went to Morrisville and dropped a game to the latter club by a score of 17 to 0. Quinn's arm gave out in the fourth inning and Snyder, the new left fielder, was substituted. The game was uninteresting and unsatisfactory and until an extra pitcher is secured, Manager Louder should try to avoid arranging two games so close together as those of last week.

HIS LIFE SAVED

BY CHAMBERLAIN'S COLIC, CHOLERA AND DIARRHOEA REMEDY.

"I am sure that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy at one time saved my life," says A. E. Lafalette, of Gregory Landing, Clark county, Missouri. "I was in such bad shape that the doctors said I could not live. When I was at the lowest ebb, one of my neighbors brought in a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and I took it and got instant relief. I soon got up and around. That was nine years ago and I am still in good health. Since then the medicine has always been in the house and always will be. It is the best on earth." For sale by all druggists.

The Bristol Worsted Mills' excursion committee held a meeting last week and decided to place the price of tickets for their annual excursion to Alantic City on Saturday, August 3d, at $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for children. This increase in the price is made necessary on account of the excursion being run by way of the bridge route and also owing to the increase in railroad rates. Two years ago the excursion was run via the bridge route at a loss of $110. Since that time the railroad company has increased its rates ten cents per capita above the old rates, thus compelling the excursion Committee to raise the price of tickets to $1.50. Even at this figure it is hardly possible to realize a profit from the excursion. Following the usual custom all the young people employed in the mill who can ride for half fare will be given complimentary tickets by the committee.

Annual Church Meeting.

The annual meeting of the congregation of the Presbyterian Church was held on Sunday evening, when the treasurer's annual report was read and a board of trustees was elected for the ensuing year. The following were unanimously elected trustees Charles M Guyon, Dr. H Pursell, L J Bevan, William Joyce, Harold Peirce, Thomas A. Muschert, and Dr W. P Weaver The retiring members of the board are J. L Johnson and W. G. Buckman, the latter declining renomination

The treasurer's report showed that while more money had been collected during the year by the envelope system than any previous year, the greater expenses incurred since the building of the new edifice had left a deficit of $1600 There is a deficit of $401 in current expenses, $200 of which was carried over from a year ago.

The report made to Presbytery that the finances of the church were never in better condition, will hardly be verified by the treasurer's statement.

Owing to the stringency in finances of the church W G Buckman has tendered his resignation as organist to take effect July 1st Mr Buckman has been the organist for eleven years.

Pure Air as a Cure for Consumption.

It is important that the entire time of the patient should be passed in pure air. The vigilance of this incessant campaign against the enemy should not be relaxed a moment Therefore, good air has to be provided for the time spent within doors Otherwise the foe will take advantage of the armistice. With the new forces thus recruited by him, the advantages gained will be largely counteracted. Hence, the rooms have not only to be kept scrupulously clean and disinfected but thoroughly ventilated. The patient has to sleep with window open as wide as possible. In certain German sanatoria abundant pure air at night is so insisted upon that there are no windows in the openings. An abundance of bedclothing is provided, and the patient soon learns to sleep in comfort in the most inclement weather, even though the snow blows in. The excess of oxygen fairly burns the noxious microbes out of the system.

In an eastern Massachusetts region, not far from the coast and but slightly above the sea level, subject to all the vicissitudes of climate for which New England is famous, and so plagued with consumption that one-fourth of all the deaths in the community are caused by it, some remarkable results have been obtained by Dr. Charles S Millet, of Brockton, in the home-treatment of consumption. A young man, many of whose nearest relatives on both sides had died of the disease, was the first case He was already in a bad way when change of climate was advised, and the prospect of leaving home so depressed him that he became much worse. His physicians had been interested in the accounts of the German methods of keeping patients out in reclining-chairs until ten o clock in the evening but he considered a bed the best place at night. So the doctor consented to the patient's desire to keep at work—for he was employed in a factory and could not leave without a serious sacrifice—on condition that he sleep outdoors. The young man had a platform built in a sheltered angle outside his chamber window, where there was a southwesterly exposure. Here he slept under the sky for five months. He began to gain flesh from the start. In four months his weight had increased by twenty-two pounds. Recovery was complete. The only medicine he took was a tonic of nux vomica. The same physician met with equal success with like treatment in various other cases. The ideal arrangement of a santorium would, therefore, seem to be one where the sleeping-rooms, with a southerly exposure, are planned with window-openings so large that the whole space is commonly free to the air on one side, while without there are balconies where the beds can be rolled out for sleeping under the stars at all times when the weather permits.—From "The Winning War Against Consumption," by Sylvester Baxter, in the American Monthly Review of Reviews for June.

NEW INDUSTRY.

The Bristol Wall Paper Mill Rented to the Columbia Wall Paper Co.

Yesterday negotiations were completed and a lease signed by the Bristol Improvement Company to the Columbia Wall Paper Company, of Philadelphia, for the paper mill at Bristol. The lease is for a term of years, with the privilege of extension.

The Columbia Company at present is operating a plant at Holmesburg Junction, which will be abandonded for the Bristol property.

Herbert D. Allman, of the wall paper house of Keyser & Allman, of Philadelphia, is president of the Columbia Company. Ample capital is back of the concern, and it has an established trade. Immediate possession was given by the Improvement Company but it will probably be several months before the mill will be in operation as the building has to be equipped with the latest improved machinery and appliances.

The company has stores in Philadelphia, New York, Boston, Pittsburg and Chicago. About one hundred hands will be employed on the start.

The new enterprise will be of great direct advantage to Bristol, and many new families will be brought to the borough, as the skilled operators will follow the transfer of the factory from Holmesburg to Bristol.

Rowdyism.

While the base ball game between Bristol and Burlington on the latter's grounds was in progress on the afternoon of Decoration Day some Bristol young men, who had imbibed Jersey beer too freely, became obstreperous and when a special officer attempted to quiet one of their number a small riot occurred. Peace was soon restored, however, and friends succeeded in getting the chief belligerent down to the boat wharf, but in crossing over on the boat he became engaged in a second altercation. Attempting to renew the fight at Bristol after the boat landed he was arrested by Officer Tice and put in under the clock for a few hours until his warlike feelings had subsided.

It is unfortunate that this incident should have occurred at a time when the attempt is being made to revive interest in base ball in Bristol. Although the club was in no way to blame for the trouble, yet many respectable citizens and particularly the ladies, will be kept away from the games through fear of a repetition of this unwarranted conduct. Young men who find pleasure in imbibing to the extent of intoxication and then become disorderly should remember that their conduct not only brings dishonor upon themselves, but the reputation of the town suffers as well, and the stigma of disgrace hovers around all who were present The most deplorable fact in connection with the incident is the knowledge that the participants in the brawl were not of the tough and rowdy element, but are of respectable parentage and pass for good citizens.

A second fight occurred on the same evening, near the ferry boat wharf at Burlington between some Bristol and Burlington young men. One of the principals was brought home in a row boat to escape arrest, as the police were watching for him to embark on the ferry boat. It seems that Memorial Day, instead of being a day set apart to commemorate the memory of our soldier dead, has been transformed into a season of revelry, dissipation and desecration.

The "Trouble" Trolley Line.

The Johnsons have relinquished their hold on the old "Morrell line" of trolley roads from Bristol to Philadelphia

The road is now entirely in the hands of the stockholders, who will proceed at once to foreclose the bonds and complete the road under the law which is about to be passed by the Pennsylvania Legislature.

The deal was finally accomplished just before noon Saturday in New York city, following a conference held in Trenton early Saturday morning between Owen Moon, Jr., representing the present stockholders, and Wilbur F. Sadler, Jr, representing the Johnsons.

The Johnsons held $143,000 worth of the bonds of the Morrell road and the title to all these was passed, clean and clear to the syndicate of stock and bondholders represented by Mr Moon.

The Morrell road has been one of the main bones of contention in all the attempts to get a trolley line from Philadelphia to Trenton

There have been numerous changes in the situation and it was supposed, at the time the Shaw interests sold out to the Johnsons, that the Johnsons would use the Morrell line as part of their system.

Later it developed that they were going into Philadelphia by another route, even though they have secured a franchise in Bristol by laying the required amount of track.

Now the syndicate which has been in control of the Morrell road has purchased the entire bond issue, and is going ahead on its own hook

The law about to be placed on the statute books of Pennsylvania, giving trolley companies enlarged rights, will overcome all the remaining obstacles to the completion and successful operation of the Morrell line, which is to be pushed vigorously.

Good judges of the situation express the belief that the Morrell line will yet be a portion of the first trolley road to be operated between Philadelphia and Trenton.

The choir will be under the leadership of Walter F. Hall. Below will be found the programme:

Commencement at St. Mary's.

The commencement exercises, marking the sixty-fourth year of St. Mary's Hall, Burlington, began on Sunday, when the Rev. Father Huntington, of Westminster, Maryland, delivered the baccalaureate sermon. Monday was devoted to class day exercise.

On Tuesday evening a large number of Bristolians attended the concert, the ferry boat making a special trip. The programme was an excellent one. Miss Mildred Weaver, Miss Alice F. Dorrance, and Miss Martha Leech, of Bristol, who rendered piano selection, received many floral gifts. Miss Dorrance was a member of the graduating class which received their diplomas yesterday.

In the annual tennis tournament on Saturday Miss Harriet Leech won the first prize and Miss Dorrance captured the second. Misses Dorrance and Leech won the doubles and then contested for the first prize, the latter winning.

School Board Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Public School Board was held in the Director's room in the High School building on last Monday evening. Those present were John K. Wildman, Edward H. Foster, M. D. Harrison, W. H. P. Hall, Harvey S. Rue, William H. Booz, P. J. Barrett, Manus McGinley, Abram Ettenger, and Doron Green.

The auditing committee, which consisted of Doron Green, P. J. Barrett and William L. Joyce, reported that they had carefully examined the accounts of the Treasurer and found them correct. The Treasurer, E. H. Foster, read his report, and it was decided to publish the same in the two Bristol papers and to procure 50 copies of the report for distribution.

The library committee submitted the following report: Number of works in the school library, 554; total number of books, 574; entire cost of books, $539.41; total tuition of non-residents since March 4th, 1886, when the library was started, and upon which tuition charges the library alone depends for its support and maintenance, $1,343.76, balance applicable to the purchase of books for the library, $804 35.

Following is a report of Superintendent Louise D. Baggs for the school month ending May 31, 1901: Number of pupils enrolled, 763; greatest number present, 697; least number present, 521; average attendance, 639; per cent of attendance, 83; present every half day, 109, new pupils admitted, 8.

The old board having concluded the work of the year, upon motion adjourned. A temporary organization was next formed by the election of William H Booz President and Doron Green Secretary. Certificates of election were presented by William H. P. Hall, M. D. Harrison and M. M. McGinley, and the oath of office administered by Mr. Booz. John K. Wildman was re elected permanent President and upon taking the chair made a brief address, dwelling principally upon the condition of the schools He referred to the recent sickness of several of the teachers, the conditions which made necessary the employment of an assistant teacher in the secondary department, Wood street; called the attention of the Directors to the deficit which appeared in the treasurer's statement and explained the reasons; and in conclusion thanked the board for its courtesy in electing him to succeed himself and hoped that the work of the coming year would be conducted with as little friction as in former years Harvey S. Rue was elected permanent secretary and Edward H. Foster permanent treasurer. The salary of the secretary was placed at $125 per annum and that of the treasurer at $100. The treasurer's bond was fixed at $15,000 and his commission for collecting taxes during the first 90 days was fixed at 2 per cent.

President Wildman next appointed the following permanent committees Property, Edward H. Foster, D A. Barrett, Abram Ettenger; Schools, W. H. Booz, W. H Hall, P. J. Barrett; Books, H. S. Rue, E. H Foster, Doron Green, Library, John K. Wildman, Doron Green, Manus McGinley; Supplies, W. L. Joyce, H. S. Rue, M. D. Harrison.

The school year was fixed at ten months, as usual, beginning Monday, Sept. 2d, 1901. It was decided to hold the regular monthly meetings of the board on the first Monday evening of each month. Arrangements were made for holding a special meeting on Monday evening, June 17th, for the purpose of electing teachers and janitors

Superintendent Baggs announced that the commencement exercises would be held in the assembly room on Tuesday evening, June 25, at 7 45 o'clock. Dr Schumucker, of the West Chester State Normal School, has been secured to deliver the address.

Orders were drawn for $64 00 to pay State tax and for $240 00 for interest on bonded debt.

On motion it was decided to hold one session in all the schools for ten days preceding the end of the present year and for the first ten days of the new year, beginning September 2d.

At this point the president called upon the Superintendent, Miss Baggs, to present to the board the matter of employing an additional teacher Miss Baggs responded by pointing out the necessity for an extra teacher whose duty it should be to assist in both the High school and Grammar A department In explaining to the board the causes which have led to the present congested condition in Grammar A department, Wood street, she said that the scholars from two departments viz. the Grammar B department in the old building on Wood street and Grammar department, Bath street, are promoted into Grammar A department, Wood street, and as the promotions in the last named department occur but once a year, while in the lower grades promotions are made semi-annually, it is utterly impossible to prevent congestion in Grammar A department. In the High School, she said, the grade has so steadily advanced in recent years that it is impossible for one teacher to give adequate attention to all the studies in the curriculum. During the past year it has been necessary to add to the duties of the Latin and drawing teacher, the teaching of literature in the High School, in order that the scholars might receive proper attention. Miss Baggs also informed the board that she had been experimenting during the past year with an elementary business course and suggested introduction of those studies into the curriculum next year, which form the basis of a commercial education She stated in conclusion that it was very gratifying to know that the grade in the High School had advanced so far that graduates can now pass the examination incident to their entrance into the State Normal Schools without further preparation.

While considering the Superintendent's suggestion regarding the employment of an assistant teacher, the board necessarily became involved in a discussion concerning the tax rate or the current year. The treasurer's report showed a deficit of $600 for this year, and a careful estimate of the expenses for next year, based upon the report of last year, proved conclusively that an increase in the tax rate could not be avoided. In the discussion certain facts were disclosed which will prove of interest to the townspeople at large. Six years ago the Bristol shools received from the State Treasurer $7000 as their share of the State school appropriation. Last year the amount received from the State was less than $5000, thus it is painfully evident that in the last six years the amount of the appropriation received by the Bristol schools has been diminished over $2000. This entire amount was not cut out of the appropriation at one time, but extends back over the whole period of six years. In 1896 the amount received was $500 less than the preceding year. In 1889 9 the diminution amounted to $900 and last year owing to the governor's veto, the amout was reduced by $600. The direct cause of this reduction, however, aside from last year, is the growth of schools in the rural districts, which necessarily reduces the proportionate amount due all the schools. Another cause was the change in law which took place in 1897. Up to that time the basis of the general appropriation was according to the number of taxables. Under the new law one-third of the appropriation is distributed on the basis of the number of school children, one-third on the number of teachers regularly employed and the remaining one-third on the number of taxables. This change in the law made a sweeping reduction in the percentage of the appropriation to which our local schools are entitled. While the actual expenses necessary for the maintenance of our borough schools have not materially increased during the past six years, except in the employment of additional teachers and the support of extra schools, yet the receipts have constantly decreased by reason of the diminition in the State school appropriation. In order to maintain the standard of the schools there has been but one solution of the problem and that was an increase in the tax rate, which has been done from time to time, as necessity demanded.

After an earnest and satisfactory discussion the directors decided to follow the suggestion of the superintendent and employ an additional teacher to relieve the pressure in the two departments specified. Subsequently the tax rate was fixed at 50 cents on the $100, being an increase of 5 cents over last year's rate.

The secretary was instructed to secure from the coal dealers of Bristol proposals for furnishing the schools with coal during the coming term.

THE MAN IN THE MOON

How a Husband and Wife Forgave One Another For Mutual Indiscretion.

"It simply won't do," observed Mr. Portland Rhodes, with emphasis.

"May I ask what you are talking about?"

"I am talking about your extravagance," said her husband. "If it continues, you will simply burst up the show," he added, relapsing into slang.

"I'm afraid your theatrical friends are demoralizing your English."

"The English language has nothing to do with the conversation," he snapped.

"Not with your conversation, dear," said his wife sweetly.

"And I'm tired of these dark allusions to my theatrical friends. It's absurd to imagine that because I take a girl to supper that—that there's anything in it. She was an old friend."

"I should hardly call her old," said Mrs. Portland-Rhodes critically. "Suppose we say middle aged?"

"Anyway, we are drifting from the point."

"What is the point of this dialogue?" inquired his wife, with extreme affability.

"Your extravagance. I cannot stand the pace. What's to be done with these things?" indicating a little pile of bills.

"I'm afraid I have no head for business," said his wife, looking tired.

"But how are we going to meet them?"

Mrs. Rhodes sniffed her smelling bottle with an air of extreme patience.

"Why not write out a check?" she murmured.

"Write out a check?" he gasped. "What the!"—

"If you wish the servants to know all our private affairs, I'll ring the bell," said his wife. "But don't shout, dear, because it makes my head ache."

There was only one reply for an independent husband, Mr. Portland Rhodes gathered up the pile of bills, housekeeping and otherwise, placed them by his wife's plate and stalked to the door.

"You've made a very poor breakfast, Charles," said his wife sympathetically.

"And you'll make me a very poor man," he muttered.

"I'm sorry, dear. I forgot how many calls you have upon your private purse."

This was the last straw. The husband banged out of the room, muttering expressions which would not be permitted even at a religious demonstration.

It was a pretty piece of acting on her part—the airiness, the nonchalance, the magnificent contempt for debt. It was all put on. She was in a complicated frame of mind. She was jealous of her husband on account of an innocent "spree" of his, which green glasses had made hideous. She was uncomfortably conscious that she was on the high road to making a fool of herself. She was up to her pretty little ears in debt, and, above all she was in a funk about it.

In short, Mrs. Portland-Rhodes had cast herself for an unsuitable role. At the bottom of her heart she was a romantic little creature, ridiculously in love with her husband, with philanthropic tendencies and a reasonable weakness for "dressing decently."

There is no more pitiable sight than that of a scrupulous person trying to be unscrupulous. She hated to owe money, but to keep level with the times she ran headlong into debt and suffered agonies. She adored her husband and quarreled with him. She despised married flirtations and was carrying on three open flirtations, to say nothing of a mysterious one, at the mere thought of which she trembled. In short, she was a poor, worried little woman who was walking in slippery places and expecting to come a cropper every minute.

A week before she had attended a fancy dress masked ball given at the Ambidextrous. Mrs. Rhodes was robed as the Morning Star and paired off with the man in the moon. She believed her partner to be a certain Percy Ladbroke, whom she counted among her admirers. They became quietly confidential, and Mrs. Rhodes rather let the cat out of the bag with regard to her financial scrapes. The man in the moon was sympathetic. He had had a "straight tip." Should he put a bit on for her? Mrs. Rhodes hesitated for a variety of reasons, one being that she had no spare cash to lose, and was already out of her depth.

"I'll tell you what I shall do," said the man in the moon. "I shall have a flutter myself, and I'll buy a few shares for you too. If it turns out badly, I'll get it back for you some other time. But it's too good to miss. You must be in it."

This arrangement sounded very comfortable and Mrs. Rhodes assented.

Her first shock was received next day when she learned that the man in the moon was not by any means Percy Ladbroke, as that young gentleman was away in the country. The next shock was a polite letter of congratulation from the man in the moon, inclosing a note for $1,000. The dabble in Angelicos had succeeded beyond her expectations.

It was a curious position for a married woman. What was she to do? A man she did not know, for he had not even signed his name, probably thinking she already knew it, had sent her a round sum of money. He might be mad, but who would believe the story? Would any sane person, especially a mere husband, believe that a stranger would hand her a share of a speculation in which she had not staked a farthing?

On the other hand, she gave a sigh of relief when she recollected that, not knowing who he was, she could not return it. That fact, combined with the pile of bills and her husband's irritation on financial subjects, decided her, and she cashed the note, and utilized it to stop the mouths of her hungriest creditors. But it seemed as if she was doomed to face the unexpected. It happened that night that, for a wonder, she and her husband dined tete-a-tete. He was gloomy and silent; she as airy and flippant as usual.

"I have had a lucky speculation in Angelicos," he said quietly when the servants had left the room.

"You don't look as if you had," she said, cracking a nut.

"And I hoped to give you a pleasant surprise," he added, "so I drove around to some of your people this afternoon to pay your bills."

She went white and nearly pinched a finger instead of a nut.

"I was rather surprised to learn that you yourself had been around this morning and paid them money on account."

There was an uncomfortable silence while his wife restrained a desire to use unladylike language on the subject of Angelicos and pleasant surprises generally.

"That was very kind of you," she said at last.

"May I ask where the money came from?" he asked.

"I never knew anybody to talk so much about money as you do," she said evasively. "Suppose you try another subject?"

"You have been telling me for several days that you are hard up," he continued in the same dry voice. "I should really like to know how you contrived to pay away the best part of a couple of hundred in cash when you are without funds."

"I had a little flutter in Angelicos, too," she said easily.

"Who put you on to it?" he asked simply. "There were not a dozen men in town who knew anything about it."

"—I just somebody at a dance, and—somehow it leaked out that I was [illegible] me," she replied. "[illegible] didn't know he meant it, [illegible] this morning."

[illegible] whistled softly.

"[illegible] fussy sort of story, Violet," he [illegible] to tell her husband," he [illegible] but not unkindly. "Who [illegible] was the man?"

There was something in the tone of his voice which told her that further evasion would be worse than useless, so defiantly she told the whole story.

"May I see the letter which accompanied the note?" said her husband.

She produced it. It was written on club note paper.

"I shall have no great difficulty in finding out who this is," he said. "I shall send a check. I don't want you to take anybody's money except mine."

"Is that all?" she said coldly. "Have you anything else to say?"

"It's not much good for me to say anything."

"I thought you might like to preach one of your lay sermons," she said.

"Not at all," he answered, with a provoking smile. "I'm not like somebody I know. I'm not going to make a mountain out of a molehill. But, really, a masked ball at the Ambidextrous and a check from a stranger is almost as naughty as my taking an actress to supper. We seem to be both going to the bad."

This was humiliating. Mrs. Rhodes expected a lecture and was only being chaffed. Moreover, the chaff was kindly, and she found it rather a struggle to keep the tears back. But when he sat down to his desk and wrote out a check and said, "There, now, will that help you out of your pickle?" she broke down altogether and wept like an ordinary woman.

"Shall we cry quits?" he said. "You forget the supper, and I forget the man in the moon."

"Suppose we say a little goose?" he corrected.

After she had left the room he looked at himself in the glass and nodded at his own reflection.

"It's all right now," he muttered, "but she must never find out who the man in the moon really was."

And the reflection in the glass winked.—Modern Society.

Peking Bells.

Peking is rich in remarkable bells, the finest specimens being located in the bell tower on the western side of the Tartar city and the Ta-chung-su, or Temple of the Great Bell, beyond the city wall. The latter contains the great bell of Peking, cast by order of the Emperor Yong Lo in 1415 and hung in the present tower by the Emperor Wanlich in 1578. This gigantic object measures 15 feet in height, is 9 inches thick and has a circumference of 34 feet at the rim. It weighs 53½ tons and is covered inside and out with inscriptions from the Buddhist outras in Chinese characters. How this huge piece of metal was raised to its present position is a mystery which has never been solved.

A Two Ton Clock.

The largest suspended clock in the world is in the Liverpool street station of the Great Eastern railway. It hangs from the roof of that station, and it is valued at £1,000 and is worked by electricity. It took 12 months to build, and a staff of skilled workmen were employed in its erection. The style is Gothic. The clock weighs two tons.

The case measures 21 feet from the pinnacle to the base, but, including the hangings by which it is suspended, the measurement is 75 feet. The case itself is ten feet square and is capable of seating a dining company of eight persons inside it, or is large enough to hold 20 persons standing. The dials are six feet in diameter, or 18 feet in circumference. The hands are made of aluminium for easier electrical working, while the dials are backed with opal for better illumination. There are inside the clock 48 16 candle power lamps, the light being switched on from the platform when required.—London Answers.

How to Signal to Mars.

Take a flag about the size of Europe and mount it upon a staff the length of the circumference of the earth. Then generate sufficient electric fluid to illuminate the material, which should be of a conductive character. Having done this, apply the fluid to the material with the assistance of all the electric waves of the solar system. Next change the laws of nature in so much as they prevent the operation of waving so gigantic a flag as the signal. Select a day when the conditions are favorable and put the apparatus in operation. Then, if the Martians are on the alert, they may possibly observe the signal and reply to it, say, in a couple of centuries. If you do not obtain a manifestation, conclude that the inhabitants of Mars are looking another way.—London Punch.

National Bathing Day.

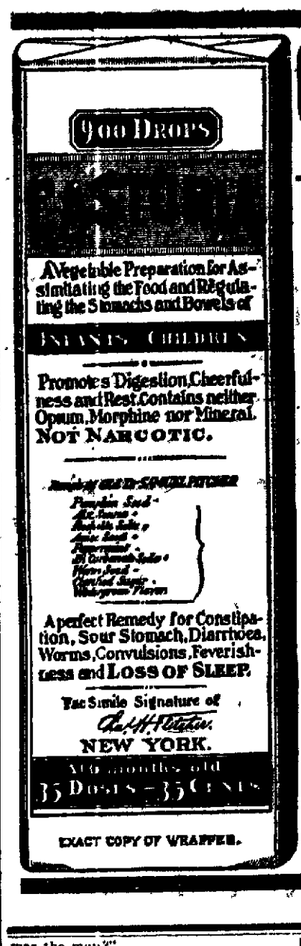

Mexico has a national bathing day. It comes once a year, on June 14. On that day every Mexican from the president down to the humblest servant or laborer is expected to give himself or herself a good wash. Some of the Mexicans, probably fearing the pneumonia, rarely permit water to touch their bodies, but on the national bathing day the most of them like to get in the swim.

Refuted.

"Miss Illiggins laughed at me when I proposed to her," said Willie Wishington.

"And yet," commented Miss Cayenne, "people say that women have no true sense of humor."—Exchange.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY

The Pennsylvania Railroad 1901 Summer Excursion Route Book.

On June 1 the Passenger Department of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company published the 1901 edition of the Summer Excursion Route Book. This work is designed to provide the public with descriptive notes of the principal Summer resorts of Eastern America, with the best routes for reaching them, and the rates of fare. It contains all the principal seashore and mountain resorts of the East, and over seventeen hundred different routes or combinations of routes. The book has been compiled with the greatest care, and altogether is the most complete and comprehensive handbook of Summer travel ever offered to the public.

The cover is handsome and striking, printed in colors, and the book contains several maps, presenting the exact routes over which tickets are sold. The book is profusely illustrated with fine half-tone cuts of scenery at the various resorts and along the lines of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

This very interesting book may be procured at any Pennsylvania Railroad ticket office at the nominal price of ten cents, or, upon application to the general office, Broad Street Station, by mail for twenty cents.

Reduced Rates to Kansas City

On account of the meeting of the Imperial Council, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, to be held at Kansas City, June 11 and 12, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will sell June 7, 8 and 9, from all stations on its line, excursion tickets to Kansas City and return at rate of one fare for the round trip plus $2.

These tickets will be good for return passage, leaving Kansas City not earlier than June 11, nor later than June 17. For specific rates and full information, apply to ticket agents.

$100 Reward $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

He Lost the Credit.

Justice Garoutte related an amusing incident which occurred to him while crossing the Atlantic. "The band played every night in the second cabin," he says, "and one evening I invited my family and a few friends to visit the second cabin and listen to the music. After a few pieces had been played I called a kellner to me and told him to give the band a glass of beer at my expense. I paid him the charges, the beer was brought to the band, they stood up, rattled their glasses, seemed greatly delighted, and said 'good luck' to a big red faced German who was sitting on the opposite side of the room, and then drank their beer. He then arose and made a speech, after which the band played 'Hail to the Chief,' amid great applause.

"I asked a gentleman who sat near me, and who understood German, what all the fuss was about, and he said the fellow who had just made the speech had treated the band to beer. It came over me like a shot that I did not tip the kellner, and that he had put up the job with the red faced German."—Argonaut.

"Hello, Cush!" "Hello, Bill!"

The late Senator Davis left his house on Massachusetts avenue one morning and started to walk to the cars. Suddenly, as if sprung from the ground, a man approached him. He was an old member of Davis' company in the war, and he looked seedy.

"Hello, Cush!" he exclaimed.

"Hello, Bill!" said the senator. "Where did you come from?"

For a few moments the senator and the old soldier chatted together. Finally came the expected "touch."

"Can you change $20, Cush?" asked the dilapidated veteran.

"Yes," answered Davis.

"Then lend me ten."

Davis laughed. "That is a little too steep," he said. "Won't you take $2 and call it square?"

It is hardly necessary to add that Senator Davis parted with his money.—Washington Post.

Security Too Big to Store.

One of the big speculators in the street recently went to a banker and said that he wished to borrow $1,000,000.

"All right," was the response. "What is your security?"

"My check," was the airy and surprising reply.

"Well," responded the banker thoughtfully, "your security is good enough, but I shall have to decline the loan, as our vaults aren't large enough to hold it."—New York Tribune.

MAYDOLE'S HAMMER.

(Benson's Plaster is Pain's Master.)

When Maydole was told that he made "a pretty good hammer," he said, "No, I don't make a 'pretty good hammer,' I make the best hammer that ever was made."

Every carpenter who saw a Maydole hammer wanted one. It was of the best material, perfectly balanced, and the head never flew off. Hammers were divided into two classes—1st, Maydole's; 2d, all the rest.

Plasters are separated by the same line of cleavage; 1st, Benson's Porous Plaster; 2d, all the rest. When for rheumatic pain, a cold, a cough, kidney trouble or any other disease or ailment that may be treated externally, you ask for a plaster, any honest, reputable druggist will give you a Benson's. He knows it is incomparably the best, and he assumes that you know it too. As the name of Maydole stood for hammers the name of Benson stands for plasters—the "real thing." All the medicinal potencies that are valuable in a plaster are in Benson's. Capsicum, Strengthening and Belladonna plasters are out of date.

An army of physicians and druggists, and millions of the people, have written of Benson's Plasters as a remedy to be trusted.

Benson's Plasters have fifty-five highest awards. Accept no substitute.

For sale by all druggists, or we will prepay postage on any number ordered in the United States, on receipt of 25c. each.
